

WINIARSKI WEEKLY

Jan. 10, 2014

Go Team Winiarski!!

Remember to check our website for important dates and my blog!

Science/Social Studies:

The past few days we have been learning about animals that hibernate and animals that migrate. We read informational text about both. Students also completed a hibernation vs. migration sort together as a class.

Math:

We created fact family houses this week! We are going to hang them in the hallway and create an entire neighborhood (which will tie in with upcoming social studies concepts)! We also are working on end of the card marking testing.

Reading/Writing:

I passed out new guided reading books yesterday. Students will have these books until Tuesday, January 21st! We are completing a lot of the end of the card marking testing. Please make sure you are reading these books at home and reviewing!

Students are continuing to work diligently on their gingerbread writing pieces! We're about halfway done with the transferring of our thoughts from a sequence chain to a rough draft. Students are also editing their work after they transfer.

Make sure your child is completing one story per week on Raz-Kids!! This will really help build fluency and comprehension!

Teacher's Corner:

Happy New Year! I hope everyone has enjoyed all the snow days!! Due to all the snow days, there was not a spelling test today. Next week's test will consist of the 7 Dolch words from this week (1/6) and the 7 Dolch words for next week (1/13). Students will not be tested on the word family words (rhyming words). The words for the spelling test on Friday, January 17th are posted below.

Remember, Thursday and Friday are BOTH half days of school. Dismissal is at 11:32am.

Please enforce correct spelling of past spelling words. Students need to master the spelling of these words, not just memorize them. The entire list is posted on the website on it's separate page: Dolch Words.
