STEFANI WEEKLY

Jan. 29, 2021

Remember to check our website for important dates and my blog!

Reading:

In reading we read non-fiction texts about different types of food and where certain foods come from. We worked on comparing (discussing how things are similar) and contrasting (discussing how things are different). We also practiced sequencing (telling the order of events).

In writing we continued working on opinion writing. A fun way to practice opinion writing at home is to give your child silly/fun/crazy options and have them pick what they would rather do! Example: would you rather hold a spider or a worm, would you rather eat a whole pizza or a whole cake, etc. This is a fun way to work on providing 3 different reasons that support their opinion.

Teacher's Corner:

First grade will begin weekly spelling tests next week! Your child will still continue to practice the words at school, and at home each day through their Word Work menu (no changes here). Each Friday, we will complete the spelling test together in class. As always, the words below are the 12 words (sight words and word family words) your child needs to master for next week. I will say the word, say it in a sentence, and then say it again. Your child needs to be able to correctly print the word on a sheet of paper. There are challenge words as well. Only practice the challenge words if you find your child has already mastered the given 12. The challenge words do not count as part of the test.

Please make sure your child is bringing their math homework to school each day. We complete math together at school Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. Those same days is when your child will have math homework. We will not do math on remote Wednesdays.

Please make sure you check your child's daily folder each day and clean out the papers that come home!

Math:

Our Unit 4 math test will be on Thursday, February 4th! A study guide was sent home on Thursday. We will complete the math test in person at school.
